HERRIOT IS VICTOR OVER POINCARE IN VERBAL DUEL

London Agreements Are Approved By Senate

BITTER DEBATE

Ex-Premier Attacks Evacuation Of Ruhr

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 26.—The Senate today approved the London Conference decisions by 204 votes to 40.

M. Poincare's contribution to the discussion in the Senate on the London reparations agreement was largely devoted to a defence of his previous policy. He declared that France accepted the Dawes scheme because it conduced to re-establishment of the inter-Allied Entente and was more advantageous than the Bonar Law scheme.

The ex-Premier admitted that the Dawes scheme allowed for an increase of the German debt, left the Reparations Commission free to establish defaults, and commercialised the German debt, but he objected to the abandonment of pledges before the promises were carried out.

(Reuter's Service)

M. Poincare spoke for two hours before opening fire on M. Herriot's work in London. He then bitterly denounced the military evacuation of the Ruhr, which, he declared, ought not to be effected until the Dawes bonds had been marketed. M. Poincare declared that another disadvantage of the evacuation was the reaction on inter-Allied debts. He explained that his idea had been to exchange certain annuities and the Ruhr pledge for an abatement of the inter-Allied debts.

As regards the question of security, the ex-Premier said that if France had the Spithead fleet in the Ruhr she would be much easier in mind, but as things were it was impossible to admit evacuation of Cologne next January.

In conclusion, M. Poincare asserted that the structure built in London rested on shiftings and on German good faith.

When M. Herriot rose to reply to M. Poincare, the latter constantly interrupted. The proceedings developed into a keen, con-

MIXED COURT STILL FACING HEAVY DOCKET

Assessors Working Through Summer In Effort To Cet Clear

Despite the fact that the summer vacation was to have commenced on July 16, so heavy has been the crush of work in the Mixed Court that all courts have been fully occupied, some of the assessors sitting every day in the week. Inspector J. E. Wheeler, acting registrar, points out in his report for the month, which is published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

A total of 129 petitions in Chinese civil cases were filed during the month, an increase of 43, leaving at the end of the month 159 cases awaiting a first hearing and 35 partly heard cases. This total is an increase of eight over the total for June.

Attention is called to the fact that Indian money lenders, apparently dissatisfied with the decision given by the Court in many cases, that defendant should pay off his debt by small monthly installments, have engaged counsel to appear for them when suing for quite small amounts. The Court has ordered petitions to be filed, but it is pointed out that if this practice increases it may be necessary to appoint a special court with an extra assessor to deal with British civil cases.

A total of 113 petitions in foreign civil cases were filed during the month, an increase of 41, leaving 39 cases on the hearing list at the end of the month. This is a decrease of 14 on last month's figures, and only ten of the cases are awaiting a first hearing.

Canton Volunteer Corps Chief Denies Charge Of Plotting Against Dr. Sun

Took Important Role In Volunteer Movement Merely To Protect His Important Business Interests, Chan Lim-pak Asserts

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Shameen, August 26.—A strict censorship has been instituted in Canton. The merchants' strike is widespread over the arms deadlock. Dr. Sun Yat-sen demands $60 for each rifle in addition to the full cost previously paid to Mr. Chan Lim-pak. The Chinese banks and the larger stores have closed and the majority of business is at a standstill. Hundreds of new wooden and sandbag barricades have been erected in Saikwan, the rich business and residential district of Canton. The merchants have disregarded orders from the police to destroy the barricades and the police now threaten to refuse protection to any shop remaining closed. The situation is critical.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Aug. 22.—Mr. Chan Lim-pak, Commandant of the Canton Merchants' Volunteer Corps, when communicated with regarding the recent charge of Dr. Yat-sen that he was intriguing to overthrow his Government in Canton, to become Governor himself, and cancel the independence of Kwangtung in favor of the North—as suggested by General Wu Pei-fu, with whom Dr. Sun has been accusing Mr. Chan of maintaining a connection, strongly denied the insinuation. He stated that he was a business man pure and simple and never had dreamed of going into politics in his life. He had taken a leading part in the Merchants' Volunteer movement simply because its object and purpose were for the self-protection of the business community. As Mr. Chan is a leading business man, having engaged in banking, silk, mining, shipping and other lines for the last 20 years, and and has many interests to protect, it was natural that he should take an important part in the Volunteer movement. As to his connection with General Wu Pei-fu, he denied it flatly.

It is understood that the Canton Merchants' Volunteers will not give up their original decision to defend their property, re-asserting that they obtained permission to import arms before the consignment was seized by the very authorities which had issued the permit, that is, the Canton Government. The Volunteers consider this act of the Government dishonorable and unjust. Cantonese residents are now erecting barriers on their streets to prevent possible looting by Dr. Sun's mercenaries, who, it is said, have already received secret instructions as to what to do in case of something unfavorable happening to Dr. Sun.

Cantonese abroad are cabling home advising moderate actions on the part of all, and asking Dr. Sun Yat-sen to return to their rightful owners the arms and ammunition he has seized.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Aug. 23.—Replying to the protest of the Canton merchants' against the stationing of Honanese mercenaries in the business sections of the city, Governor Liao Chung-hoi of Kwangtung informed a delegation of Canton business men who interviewed him on August 20 that the Government had to protect itself. Upon finding that nothing unusual would happen in the next few days, the Government would be glad to withdraw the troops from the business section, it was understood.

The business men's delegation, however, did not hesitate to make it plain to the Civil Governor that the conduct of the mercenaries had never been well regarded by the Cantonese, that their presence might easily incite disaffection among the business men and cause misunderstanding, and that it was possible and might be necessary that shops around which the troops were quartered should rather close than suffer interference by the mercenaries. Such closing, the business

COUNCIL BANS LARGER GRANT FOR HOSPITAL

Plea Of Shantung Road Institution Is Denied

An increase in the per capita payments made for Municipal Council employees who are sent to the Shantung Road Hospital for treatment as in-patients, from $1 to $1.50 per day has been granted by the Council, according to correspondence appearing in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette. The Council, however, has refused the request of the Hospital Committee, for an increase in the annual grant from Tls. 5,000 to Tls. 15,000.

In a letter sent to the Council on July 5, Mr. J. H. Teesdale, chairman of the hospital committee, called attention to the great extent of the community work performed by the hospital, and expressed the view of the committee "that the Council's support was inadequate, having regard to the services rendered by the hospital for the community, which, owing to the enormous growth of the city and the consequent increase in the number of street accidents, overcrowding, attempted suicides and indigent cases has considerably augmented."

Mr. Teesdale included in his letter tables showing the growth of the work of the hospital during the past nine years and the increase in overhead charges and total expenditures. He expressed the view that the treatment of persons injured in vehicular accidents, casualties, attempted suicides and entirely free in-patients be considered "community work." With regard to S.M.C. employes treated as in-patients, the payment of $1 per day is insufficient to cover bare cost, which is $1.50 per day.

Three important features of the hospital's work were brought into relief:

"(1). That a great deal of the Community service rendered by the hospital, and in an increasing degree, is a dead loss to it.

"(2). That the figures and cost quoted show that the work done for the Community and the cost of it has increased from three to four times since the grant was increased to Tls. 5,000 in 1915, and

"(3). That the payment of $1 per day for S.M.C. employee in-patients is now inadquate to cover the actual relative expense incurred by the hospital."

An increase in 1925 of the annual grant to Tls. 15,000 was therefore asked, and an increased charge for S.M.C. employee in-patients of $1.50 per day.

Replying to Mr. Teesdale, the Council declared that after careful consideration it did not consider that circumstances warranted an increase in the amount of the annual grant. However, consent was granted to the suggested increase in the fees for S.M.C. employee inpatients effective January 1, 1925.

BENGAL COUNCIL AGAIN REJECTS MINISTRY'S PAY

Swarajists Refuse To Vote Salaries On Second Motion

(Reuter's Service)

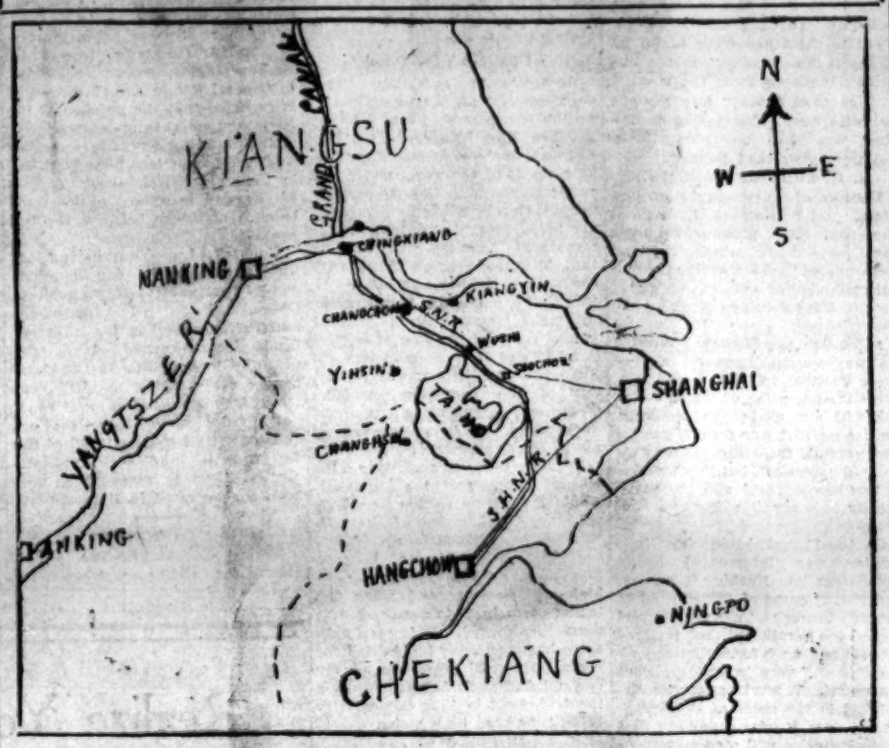
Calcutta, Aug. 26.—The Bengal Legislative Council has again rejected the Ministers' salaries by 69 votes to 66.

The Swarajists rejected Ministers' salaries in the Legislative Council on March 24. Lord Lytton, the Governor of Bengal, then proposed again to submit the votes to the Legislative Council in July, but the Swarajists obtained an injunction of the High Court to disallow the motion, after which Lord Oliver, the Secretary of State for India, sanctioned the amendment of the rules governing the procedure of the Legislative Assembly and Provincial Legislatures, whereby estimates could be resubmitted to the Legislatures.

It was recently intimated officially that in the event of the rejection of Ministers' salaries, the Administration would be carried on without Ministers.

Sketch Map Showing The Danger Zone



Despite the plan of the Chihli Party to encircle Chekiang with the forces of four provinces, Kiangsu, Anhui, Kiangsi and Fukien, fighting will probably be confined to the Chekiang-Kiangsu border, because both Tulis Ma Lien-chia of Anhui and Tsai Cheng-hsun of Kiangsi are reported to be non-committal in the internecine war while Fukien is suffering from internal dissension on account of the proposed fight. Latest reports show that the battle line will be drawn from Yihsing, along the Taiho lake, Wusih, Soochow and Quinshan. While Chekiang and Kiangsu troops are rapidly closing upon each other, the nearest point of contact, in the vicinity of Quinshan, is yet 18 li apart.

ARMS SEIZURE MADE; BOATMEN FACE CHARGES

Nineteen Pistols And 2,000 Rounds Of Ammunition Taken By Police

Quick action by a Chinese Police Constable on patrol duty on the Thibet Road Bridge resulted in the seizure, early yesterday morning, of nineteen Mauser pistols and almost 2,000 rounds of ammunition.

The constable was standing on the bridge at 4:15 o'clock in the morning when he noticed a well-dressed Chinese, carrying a sack across his shoulder, crossing the bridge on the other side. His suspicions aroused by the sack, the constable called upon the man to halt. As he did so, the man dropped the sack and fled. The constable chased the man over the bridge and as far as a dark alleyway, where the pursued man disappeared.

Examination of the sack showed that it contained ten .32 calibre Mauser pistols, eight .765 calibre Mauser pistols, 1,100 rounds of .32 calibre ammunition and 800 rounds of .765 calibre ammunition.

The constable brought the sack to the station, whereupon Detective Sergeants Tinkler and Papp went to the scene. Their search of a sand barge, which was moored at the bridge, revealed one more .765 calibre Mauser pistol. The laodah of the barge and three coolies were taken into custody, and appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday before Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh. The Court ordered the arms and ammunition confiscated, and remanded the accused for one week.

FIRE DESTROYS GODOWN OF MING SUNG COTTON MILL

Damage Placed At $85,000 Other Buildings Undamaged

One of three godowns of the Ming Sung Cotton Mill on Warren Road was completely destroyed by fire last night shortly after 10 o'clock. Damage, according to the management, is placed at Tls. 85,000, being the cost of yarns, which were fully covered by insurance. The other godowns, the machine room and offices remained intact.

$4,000 In Gems Lost By Women In Armed Raid

Hold-Up Men Escaped In Early Morning On Kuling Road

An early morning holdup in which a Chinese woman and two companions lost $4,000 worth of jewellery was reported to the police at 1:05 a.m. yesterday.

The woman who made the complaint said that she and her companions were walking down an alleyway leading out of Kuling Road when they were attacked by a gang of four men, two of whom were armed with pistols.

After seizing the jewellery, the robbers fled down the alleyway and escaped.

FOREIGN FIRMS FEAR RAIDS IN EVENT OF WAR

Foreign concerns with factories or stocks of goods located in the outskirts of Shanghai were quite nervous yesterday at the news of the possibility of actual fighting and troop movements in the immediate neighborhood of the foreign settlements. The managers of about fifty such concerns called upon one of the foreign consuls yesterday morning to find out what measure of protection would be afforded in case the troops of either of the belligerants moved into the district.

One concern, The China Electric Company, a joint American-Chinese company which manufactures telephone and telegraph equipment was considerably worried because of the fact that it has on hand about a million dollars worth of cables and other materials useful for war purposes. It was said yesterday afternoon that offers had been received from agents of both the Kiangsu and Chekiang military officials, but that no action could be taken because of the absence of the manager, an American, from the city.

According to one of the foreign consuls no provisions have been taken as yet to extend foreign protection to firms in the outskirts of the city and that no move would be taken in that direction unless an actual danger develops. Although there is a general belief in consular circles that serious fighting may develop in this neighborhood especially in the territory immediately surrounding the arsenal at Lunghua, no move has as yet been made to order foreign gunboats in this direction. Complete dependence is to be placed upon Chinese officials here for maintenance of order in the countryside surrounding Shanghai and, according to the Consul quoted above, no move in the direction of extending foreign protection will be attempted unless actual acts detrimental to foreign interests occur.

HO ADOPTS BELLIGERENT ATTITUDE TOWARDS CHI; TROOPS DRAWING NEARER

Hostile Forces Only 17 Li Apart Between Wangtu And Quinsan, Where Soldiers Show Great Activity; Local Trains Suspended But Resumed After Relieving Congestion

A mild declaration of war against Nanking was made yesterday by General Ho Feng-lin, Military Governor of Sunkiang and Shanghai, in a speech delivered at a meeting of local gentry held at his Lunghua Yamen. The speech was significant in as much as it openly assailed the Kiangsu authorities for a breach of the peace pact signed last year with Chekiang.

Although relations between Shanghai and Nanking had been strained ever since the local governer avowed his allegiance with General Lu Yung-hsiang of Hangchow, official communications went on as usual up to yesterday with the usual official courtesies declared General Ho. But yesterday's remarks by General Ho is now thought to terminate further friendly intercourse. After relating how patiently he has been trying to maintain peace and order of this locality, General Ho said:

"But the people on the other side are inconsiderate. Under the pretext that we have given refuge to Generals Chwang Tse-ping and Yang Hua-chao of Fukien Province Kiangsu has conducted a great deal of propaganda to deceive the public in the hope of justifying ulterior motives. Feverish military preparations were made and the general populace became restless.

"Being peacefully inclined and fearing that some misunderstanding might be caused, General Lu Yung-hsiang took pains to explain why he had allowed Generals Chwang and Yang to remain in his territory. He was afraid that these desperate forces might enter Kiangsi and Anhui and incite trouble there, so he had permitted them to remain in Chekiang as an obligation on his part to observe the stipulations of the peace pact.

"If those on the other side had no ultimate designs, they should have been satisfied with the explanation. But movements of troops are reported. Arms were secured. Vessels were seized and a military cordon established on the provincial border for an armed conflict. Such drastic steps had caused a great commotion among the people of the entire province.

"In order to maintain the peace of Sungkiang and Shanghai, I have tried to be calm. Yet despite efforts made by the gentry to call a halt to the warlike gestures, today, we have been informed of the commandeering of over 180 freight cars by Nanking, and of advances being made this afternoon by troops from Kiangsu, Anhui and Fukien. There is imminent danger of war. Hope

'NEAR MIRACLE' MARKS RESCUE OF LOCATELLI

Aid Comes After Supply Of Rockets Is Almost Exhausted

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 27.—Details now available indicate that Signor Locatelli had a very narrow escape.

Reuter's New York correspondent telegraphs that the cruiser Richmond was going out to sea following a fruitless search of the Greenland icepack, when suddenly flares were observed at midnight. The ship played its searchlights for half an hour before it picked up the aeroplane, which had drifted 60 miles ward of the probable search zone. The discovery, therefore, was almost a miracle. The fliers had sent up rockets every two hours until their supply had almost been exhausted. It was one of the last which was seen on board the Richmond.

Signor Locatelli says that his original trouble developed 7½ hours after leaving Reykjavik owing to water in the motor. He believed that he could make Fredericksdal but the fog was so thick that he decided to alight, effect repairs and await clearer weather, but he came down unexpectedly in a rough sea. The descent loosened two of the engine supports. After that the mechanics were prostrated by seasickness, and the turbulent weather prevented the machine from taking off again.

The Premier said in conclusion that grave problems remained to be settled. He would not make rash promises but asked the House to choose between isolated action and inter-Allied co-operation.

Gen. Ho Assumes Hostile Attitude Towards Nanking

for amicable settlement is now futile. While sympathetic with the people who are to suffer from the atrocities of war, my responsibility calls for adequate preparations for the defense of territory and will not tolerate any aggression on the part of the outsiders.

"Hence I have been reluctantly compelled to send with discretion certain forces to strategic points in the same spirit which has featured my administration here, namely, the protection of lives and property within my jurisdiction. The forces along the front have been strictly ordered not to take any offensive steps unless forced to do so. For fear of misunderstanding that might be caused through the troop movements, I have called this meeting of the gentry, merchants, educationalists and officials with the hope that you may understand why we have been forced to assume this belligerent attitude."

It will be remembered that General Chi Hsieh-yuan, in an attempt to clear up the war scares, a few days ago stated that he was strictly observing the so-called peace-pact in letter and in spirit. But said he:

"Since the entry of Chwang and Yang into Chekiang, rumors from all quarters have been rampant. I find that article 3 of the peace pact stipulates that in the event of any outside troops invading any of the two provinces or passing through any of them, the authorities of the province concerned shall deem it their duty to prevent or stop them from doing so. Now, Chekiang has not only failed to prevent or stop them, but has even admitted them. Whether Chekiang has observed or disregarded the Peace Pact, public opinion will be our arbiter. The reason why I have remained silent is because any interpellation from me might cause alarm to the people. As I have repeatedly declared before, my object shall always be to give my territory security and the people peace. In view of the proximity of Kiangsu and Chekiang to each other, any untoward incident would make it impossible for me to secure my territory and safeguard my people. Therefore, if I have taken precautionary measures, I can show good reasons. In short, if Chekiang does not attack Kiangsu, Kiangsu will not attack Chekiang. This is my sentiment which will never be changed."

Among those present at the meeting were Mr. Sung Han-chang, Mr. Yu Ya-ching, Mr. Shen Hsin-ching, Mr. Fan Chiu-pah, Mr. Shen Tien-hsin, Mr. Shen Lien-fang, Mr. Hsu Chien-ling and Mr. Yao Tse-chih.

5,000 IN QUINSAN

Five thousand troops arrived in Quinsan yesterday from Nanking, according to eye-witnesses who arrived in Shanghai last night. Trenches are being dug and military telephones and telegraphs installed at the railway station. The temples are crowded with soldiery. Ricsha coolies and servants were pressed into service, removing cases from the train and attending on the braves.

The troops belong to the 5th division and the fourth mixed brigade and were sent there from Nanking.

The Chekiang troops under the command of General Yang Hua-chao, whose asylum in the province, formed one of the sparks that may ignite the conflagration, are stationed in Wangtu, about 17 li from their enemy in Juinsan.

The report that Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan has arrived in Changchow to direct the operation personally is yet unconfirmed.

Admiral Ing Chien-chang and Admiral Chow Shou-jui, of the local independent navy, left here for Hangchow yesterday to confer with General Lu Yung-ting. The August salary for the officers and men of the local squadron was released yesterday. Another report was received here that Admiral Yang Shu-chwang left Fukien waters for Shanghai yesterday with five vessels, the Cruiser Haiyung, the Battleship Yinjui and Gunboats Chu Kwan, Chu Tung and Yung Chien. Three thousand tons of coal have been purchased for the local unit, sufficient to last the ships a month.

It is understand that the plan of Admiral Tu Shih-kwei of Nanking is to have the Fukien fleet bombard Woosung and have the Nanking fleet penetrate Liuho to enable the landing forces to attack Woosung from the rear.

Rice took another leap yesterday afternoon. The closing quotation was $15 per picul, three dollars higher that Sunday.

R. R. SERVICE RESUMED

Rumors of every description flew about the Settlement throughout the day. Most prominent among them were those which reported that in one fashion or another all railroad service out of Shanghai both to Hangchow and Nanking had been stopped.

A visit to the Shanghai-Nanking Railway station, however, showed these reports to be groundless. With the exception of the 9.30 a.m. and 9.50 a.m. trains to Nanking, service on that line from Shanghai was normal. Incoming trains were delayed somewhat, but this was due to the heavy travel and the particularly heavy shipments of baggage.

On the Shanghai-Hangchow line, service was interrupted by a derailment at Kashing. Rumors had it that some of Chi's men had gotten through to Kashing and caused the derailment, but railroad officials had no information regarding this and were inclined to scout the report. A work train was dispatched to the scene of the derailment and it is expected that normal service will soon be resumed.

General Ho Feng-lin's troops made their first appearance at the station early yesterday morning and announced that they had been sent there to protect the station property. Later, in some fashion, orders were served on the railway officials that all train service be cancelled and that the sale of tickets was stopped. In accordance with these orders, the ticket booths were closed and the 9.30 and 9.50 a.m. trains for Nanking suspended. Subsequently, however, it was stated that these orders were a mistake, the sale of tickets and normal service from Shanghai was resumed.

TROOPS SENT UP

Three trainloads of troops were moved through the station yesterday, but none of the soldiers were permitted to disembark and there were no untoward incidents.

Throughout the day, the scene at the station was one of great activity, and foreign and Chinese officials worked long hours in order to keep the service going at a normal rate. Mountains of baggage accumulated, the effects of hundreds of "refugees" from the outlying districts, who are pouring into Shanghai in order to escape the possibility of being caught in the war zone.

General Ho's soldiers, possibly fifty or one hundred of them, stood guard about the station with fixed bayonets, each with hundreds of rounds of ammunition bulging out all over him. For the most part, the military guard concentrated at the telegraph and telephone offices, where a rigid censorship of all messages was maintained. The troops, however, were orderly, and no trouble was experienced.

At various periods during the day, the front gates of the station were closed and locked, and admission could be obtained only through the side entrance, where a squad of soldiers stood guard and scanned carefully those attempting to gain entrance. Within the station were scores of typical family parties from the country districts, men, women and children who had made a hurried journey to Shanghai, bringing with them most of their portable effects.

SUNGKIANG UPSET

According to a China Press correspondent at Sungkiang located on the southern border of Kiangsu and on the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway, business is generally upset as a result of the war rumors. All paper money with the exception of notes issued by a few foreign banks are being refused and many of the prominent families are moving into Shanghai taking along with them all of the baggage and furniture that it is possible to get on the railroad trains. One wealthy family reported the loss of several trunks and boxes en route to Shanghai, but this probably was due to the confusion resulting from the enormous amount of baggage now being transported out of the danger zone.

Similar reports regarding the loss of baggage at the Shanghai-Nanking Railway station were likewise explained by one of the railway officials this morning. All of the station platforms between Shanghai and Nanking are piled high with baggage and when the trains come in, it is a case of first come first served. This results in some baggage being left behind for other trains and when the owners can not find their belongings when the trains get in they immediately think they have been stolen.

BONDS FALL

All Chinese government bonds met with a sharp drop yesterday. The opening quotations this morning were six to eight dollars lower than previous market. The Shanghai Stock Exchange closed its market again in the afternoon.

Money becomes tighter again owing to war news. The dollars rate 75, being the highest record within last five years. There seems no probability of further failure of any native bank. All rumors of unsteadiness of native banks or modern banks were unfounded.

A meeting of creditors of Yue [illegible] Native Bank was held at [illegible] Bankers' Association. The report of Liquidaators states that a sum of about Tls. 400,000 has been received from debtors and partners. A distribution of twenty percent will made among creditors immediately.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hangchow, Aug. 27.—According to one of the staff officers of General Lu Yung-hsiang, the Chekiang troops are fully prepared to cope with the situation at any moment in case General Chi Hsieh-yuan's troops should open fire upon the Chekiang troops.

Fighting will be actually started, if it takes place at all, immediately after the arrival at Hangchow of the troops under the command of Tsang Chi-ping and Yang Hua-chao who are now staying in the district of Changshan, Chekiang, states the staff-officer.

There are at present approximately 70,000 Chekiang troops, including 5,000 troops belonging to General Tsang Chi-ping, and it is reported that the number of the Kiangsu troops is about the same as the Chekiang forces inasmuch as soldiers have of late been recruited by General Chi Hsieh-yuan, Tuchun of Kiangsu in order to keep the balance of power between the two provinces.

General Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang, who is considered as one of the wealthiest tuchuns in China, is to all appearance optimistic so far as his military funds are concerned. It is true that the leaders of the Chekiang troops are holding military conferences daily as to the question of how to deal with the situation, and that the headquarters of the 1st, 2nd, 4th and 16th Divisions of the Chekiang troops have now been concentrated in Hangchow.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 24.—The condition of the bonds market continues to be widely discussed in Peking. The statement issued by the Inspector-General of Customs had a considerable effect in allaying the anxiety of bona fide investors, but the general opinion is that the warlike activities in and around Chekiang had much more to do with the depreciation of bonds than any anxiety regarding Customs funds.

New light was thrown on the situation in the South-East by the telegram from Fukien stating that hostilities between Generals Sun Chuan-fang and Chow Yin-jen were imminent. Well informed Chinese in Peking found it impossible to believe that General Lu Yung-hsiang intended to attack either Kiangsu or Fukien. Yet it was known that he was equipping General Tsang Chih-ping and Yang Hua-chao and allowing them to enroll recruits in Chekiang province. Both of these generals, however, think they have a stake in Fukien, and the probability of conflict between Sun and Chow might afford a favorable opportunity for them to re-establish themselves in that province, thereby restoring General Lu Yung-hsiang's influence there and giving him again a connecting link with Kwangtung.

Chinese military circles point out, however, that in any case General Lu Yung-hsiang is taking a risk, for while he has been allowed to remain peacefully in Chekiang for many years, in which he has not directly interferred with other provinces, it is not to be expected that the Chihli party will refrain from action if his ambitions go beyond the borders of Fukien.

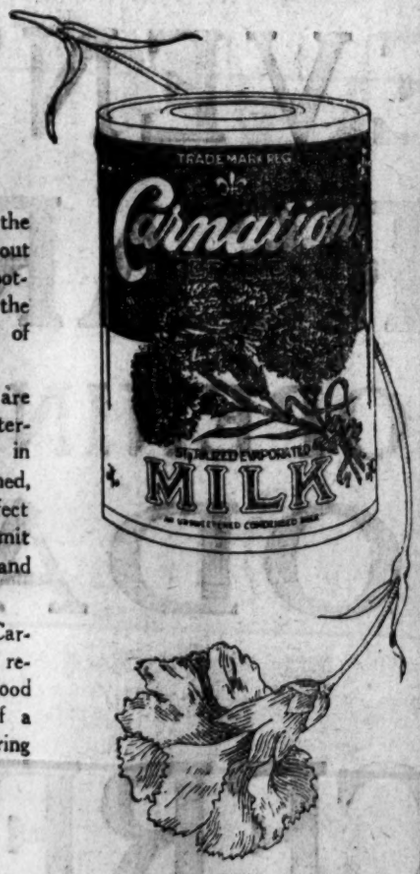
Guarding the Purity of Carnation Milk



Each year, thousands of housewives visit the big Carnation Milk condenseries. Without exception, they are delighted with the spotless surroundings and enthusiastic over the precautions taken to guard the purity of Carnation Milk.

Glass-lined receivers for fresh milk are thoroughly cleaned and scientifically sterilized twice daily. Great vacuum pans in which the milk is evaporated are polished, inside and out until they shine with perfect cleanliness. Even the farmer must submit his milk receptacles for cleansing and sterilizing under Carnation direction.

So great is the purity and richness of Carnation Milk, that leading physicians recommend it without hesitation as a food for infants. You, too, can be sure of a safe, sanitary supply of milk by ordering Carnation.

The Passing Of Carpentier

For Years A Veritable Ambassador Of France

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, July 28.—The dramatic defeat of Georges Carpentier by Gene Tunney, in New York the other day, and generally Carpentier's bad luck in America, has aroused a great deal of sympathy for him in England where he has been held in the highest esteem. In view of his remarkable career and the very high place he has won in the boxing world for all time, it is interesting to review at this time something of his history. A correspondent writing in the Daily Telegraph gives the following interesting sketch of this famous Frenchman.

"If I lose to 'Gene Tunney, then I must throw in my hand; the ring will know me no more." Such was the message conveyed to me during my recent stay in Paris by Carpentier, and those who may claim to have a close acquaintance with the Frenchman trust that he will not suffer to be resurrected. He has had a long, a glorious day, and, as we knew he would, he has gone down full of fight. But as a shell of the old, the familiar Georges Carpentier—broken, battered, used up, the once finely-chiselled, handsome face coarsened; it is now the face of a pugilist—nose misshapen; and his once delicate hands are knotted and cracked. As a fighter there is now small use for him: henceforth he will be rated as but one of a crowd. The pity is that after he had been pounded into defeat by Dempsey he did not pack up his boxing kit. Retirement then would have marked a glorious exit, for though he failed in his quest for the world's heavyweight title, we who saw his encounter at Jersey City three years ago agreed that no man, white or black, could have done better. For Dempsey, as he was on that memorable Saturday afternoon in July, 1921, was unbeatable, for all except a few seconds, when Carpentier crashed his right hand, that had his body and soul, everything in it, to the jaw of the giant American, and caused him to so rock that 100,000 people jumped to their feet ready to proclaim a new champion, it was plain that the title would not go to France.

If Carpentier had been a free agent, if the vanity that is in all of us had not caused him to conjure up hopes that he would yet become the first pugilist of all the countries, he would not have drawn on another glove. The lure of the ring, the stupendous prizes offered to him, however, gripped him tight, and there came a day when he lay stretched and bleeding at the feet of Battling Siki. But Carpentier, in defiance to his better self, I am sure, sought rehabilitation; he refused to make the confession that though outwardly formidable, he was no longer fitted to pit himself against real and worthy champions. If he did not embark upon this last trip to America with his tongue in his cheek I do not know my Carpentier. It has been insisted that he took himself to the States because of his fear of Bloomfield, who is so soon to fight Tom Gibbons at the Wembley Stadium; he was badly advised to make the journey, but fear that he would suffer defeat by Bloomfield could never have possessed him. Carpentier is a stranger to fear; and to a courageous man, to an arresting personality, and to a world's character I would pay my tribute.

The life of Carpentier surely makes one of the most amazing romances of the ring. A poor boy, of the coalfields of Northern France, he linked up with one, Francois Descamps, and as "the child fighter of Lens" he fought a full-grown man at Maison Lafitte. He has fought twenty rounds for 20 francs; he has allowed himself to be half-murdered for a couple of pounds; and he has, for one contest, been paid little short of £50,000. When 17 he was a European champion; when still in his teens he knocked out Bombardier Wells, to whom he conceded some 42 pounds in weight, and was ever so many inches shorter. He has in turn beaten every British champion, from light to heavy weight; he won the world's cruiser title from Battling Levinsky.

When war broke out and he was yet under age he had been paid £4,000 for one contest; and he was a millionaire in francs. He joined the colors of his country immediately; and so long as war lasted he refused to engage in a fight for money. As a flight sergeant he was mentioned in despatches twice, and was decorated with the Croix de Guerre, and the Medaille Militaire for gallantry. The war took away his fortune of some £40,000, but since he returned to civil life he has received fabulous sums of money. At a rough estimate I should say that Carpentier today is worth little less than £200,000, and, next to Dempsey, is the richest pugilist in the world.

If Carpentier has remained in the ring too long, we shall always remember him as one of the most interesting fighters of his time. For years, ever since he was a tiny tot, he has enjoyed unbounded popularity; and in bidding adieu to his considerable public he may, with every justification, claim that, perhaps more than any other man, he revolutionised professional boxing; in many ways, he was not only a remarkable pugilist, but for years an ambassador of France.

Keenan Meets De Dios And Favacho Fights Kid Mystery

Ma Ching vs Fernan

3rd Event

Favacho vs Kid Mystery

Main Event
Syd Keenan vs De Dios
12 rounds

The above card for tonight at the Carlton looks very good with five bouts for a total of 32 rounds. After the first three bouts between little fellows, including both local boys and newcomers, there will be an eight-round bout between Bobby Favacho and Kid Mystery which should be fully as interesting as the final between Keenan and De Dios. Favacho and the Kid both pack a punch and are inclined to mix it up, and the scrap between these big boys—both are in the welter class—should be worth while, and may end in a knockout.

Bobby knocked out the Kid in their last fight, in fact, but the Kid says it won't happen again, and if there are any kayo operations to be performed he's going to be prime mover. He is in good shape, as was shown in his scrap with Nevsky last week, though if the Russian had been alert to his opportunities the fight might have ended differently. The Kid is good, however, and Bobby will have to extend himself. The fight is booked for eight rounds.

The wind-up, between Syd Keenan and Faustino De Dios, is a pretty even match. Their three previous bouts have failed to show anything decisive except the difference of their styles. Syd specializes in a remarkably successful defense and an ability to stand punishment, while De Dios is a fast and clever boxer who is not likely to let Syd's wicked punch dand on him effectively. The fight is booked for twelve rounds, and at catch-weights, so as to give the boys an opportunity to be at their best and to settle the question of personal supremacy as definitely as possible in one scrap. Keenan has been training with Billy Tingle, and both he and De Dios are reported to be in excellent shape. It should be a very interesting affair.

MR. RAVEN WINS TICKET

The number of programs filled in at last week's boxing at the Carlton show how much local sports appreciate a game of chance. There is much discussion for and against contestants, but when it comes to a final decision the wise ones will frequently guess wrong. In last week's contests Mr. Raven, of the Chocolate Shop, hit the nail on the head more often than any other prophet, and has won the two ringside seats for tonight's boxing.

Paotingfu Lays Cornerstone For New "Y" Building

(China Press Correspondence)

Paotingfu, August 25.—The cornerstone for the new Y. M. C. A. building at Paotingfu was laid on Saturday afternoon. Owing to inclement weather many of the expected guests did not come. Representatives of the President's residence, the Fang Wu Si Ling Pu, the chief of police, the district law court, the schools and churches of the city, the Y. M. C. A. and of several business firms were present. Music was furnished by the police band. The address of the occasion was delivered by Mr. Chang Heng Chiu, secretary of the American Board Mission, Tientsin. An impending rain storm prevented others from speaking and brought the ceremony to a hasty close.

This new building is to be a memorial to Horace Tracy Pitkin who was killed by the Boxers at Paotingfu in 1900. The funds for its erection (Mex. $52,000) were subscribed by friends in America. The money for the land (Mex. $5,000) was subscribed a few years ago by President Tsao Kun, Marshals Wu Pei-fu and Feng Yu-hsiang, and many other Chinese friends of the Paoting Association.

The Association property is inside the city wall near the West Gate and is easily accessible to most of the schools and to all parts of the city. The building when finished will be well equipped and will have an excellent athletic field adjoining.

Canada To Come Up-River; Will Set New Record

A new record in navigation of the Whangpoo will be set tomorrow morning when the giant Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Canada, will be brought up the river for the first time in the two years which she has been calling at Shanghai. The Canada will be the largest vessel ever to come up the Whangpoo.

Within recent months, the Canadian Pacific, in order to extend its service to shippers and passengers, has brought others of the Canadian Pacific steamships up the Whangpoo instead of anchoring at Woosung as formerly. The arrival of the Canada tomorrow, will complete this new service. The Canada is due to dock at the China Merchants' Lower Wharf at about 11 a.m.

"Health Better than it has been for Years."

Our portrait is of Mrs. WOODROW, of 58, Robinson Road, Tooting, London, England, whose husband writes:

"My wife has suffered very badly for the past four or five years with Piles, being unable to sleep at night or get any relief during the day. She tried several advertised remedies, none of which did her any good. Some three weeks ago she thought she would try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and before she had taken half a bottle she was better, and by the time she had finished the second bottle she was quite cured. She can now sleep well, eat well, and get about her work, and her general health is better than it has been for years." In a further letter some eight months later Mr. Woodrow writes: "I am pleased to say that since my wife's cure of Piles in September, 1918, there has been no sign of return of the trouble."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious. Of all Dealers. Ask for and see you get

Correction and Apology
By The China Press

"The China Press makes a correction. In last Sunday's (August 17th) paper there appeared an advertisement of the Oculists' Institute Company, and at the top of the advertisement there was printed a line of type containing the letters, "NRPTZOE" The size of type in which this mystic word was printed should have been of a size suited for reading by normal eyes at a distance of 20 feet. Through a mistake of the advertising department the size of type used was larger than was intended. It should be read by normal eyes at approximately 70 feet. Test letters in eye examination are based upon a 20 foot arc which was invented by Snellen in 1865. In our reprint of the advertisement on last Friday (August 22nd) the orginal 20 foot Snellen type was used in the O. I. C. advertisement. We are glad to take this opportunity of apologising to the O. I. C. for the mistake in the ad and also to our subscribers who may have become confused by testing their eye-sight thereby."

From The China Press, August 24th.

Here is the correct size type for Testing the vision at 20 feet.

N R P T Z O E

How Well Can You See?

Stand Twenty Feet from this advertisement, pinned to a wall, level with your eyes.

You should be able to read the large black letters at the top with each eye separately.

Now, hold this fourteen inches away from the eyes in a natural reading position. You should read the type in the margin easily with either eye.

These lines in margin should appear equally black in all directions and at any distance with either or both eyes. If some lines appear blacker or of unequal density you have astigmatism—a malformation of the eyeball which can only be corrected by glasses ground to your individual requirements.

Do your Eyes Tire Easily? Do they water in the wind or sun? Do you "squint" in the sunlight?

There are many, who, with apparently normal vision, suffer with headaches and eye-strain caused by weak eye-muscles and both eyes not focusing together. Such muscular Imbalance can only be corrected by proper glasses.

Many do not need glasses to See with, but only to Relieve the Strain of Seeing—the only safe and sure way is to

Sikh Charged With Sedition Deported By British Court

An Indian who was deported from China eight years ago as an undesirable, and one engaged in seditious propaganda, appeared in the British Court here yesterday before Mr. G. W. King, Magistrate, accused of returning from deportation.

The defendant, Mit Singh, was arrested by D. S. Forkin on Tuesday afternoon at 701 Connaught Road, on a warrant. The detective gave evidence in Court yesterday of the arrest, following which Mr. Le Mesurier, Chief Clerk of the British Supreme Court, testified to an order of deportation having been made against Mit Singh September 26, 1916, and confirmed by the Judge the following day. A warrant showed that the man was actually sent to India.

Captain E. I. M. Barrett, on the stand, identified the defendant as the man who was deported eight years ago. He was participating in seditious propaganda at the time, which was war time. He was arrested in a raid on a house in Frenchtown where gambling was supposed to have been carried on, and several Indians were arrested and deported. The defendant had returned to Shanghai last month.

Mr. A. G. Mossop, Acting Crown Advocate, said he believed it was the first offense of this kind in the British Court here. Mr. Mossop was appearing under instructions from the British authorities here, who regarded the return of deportees as a very serious matter. It being the first case, however, it was not to be pressed. The Court was rather asked to make an order of re-deportation. If at any future time deportees return, however, he would have to ask the Court to inflict not only re-deportation, but imprisonment as well. The defendant was charged with sedition and conduct likely to cause a breach of the peace during war time, and was considered an undesirable person.

The defendant said he had received permission to come here, having gone from India to Singapore, to North Borneo, to Hongkong, and to Canton, coming here from the latter place. He had received permits from the local British representatives in various places to take him further. He showed his papers, corroborating his statement, including a permit from a British consular official in Canton allowing him to come to Shanghai. The defendant said he had told the British official in Canton that he had been deported from here. He had no paper from the Secretary of State.

The Court, in pronouncing sentence, told the defendant that as the prosecution did not desire a sentence of imprisonment the Magistrate would not make an order for two months' hard labor, as he was inclined to do. He was issuing an order for re-deportation, which would have to be confirmed by the Judge.

Increased Trade In Cottons Forecast

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 26.—The Manchester correspondent of the Westminister Gazette expresses the opinion that the cotton industry will probably witness a period of increased trade in the near future, owing to the promise of larger supplies from the United States. Raw cotton is now at a very attractive level from the buyers' point of view, while customers abroad are only awaiting stable prices. The outlook is therefore brighter than in the past four years, and the corner has apparently been turned.

Extorting Money Brings Two Police Constables To Court

Two Chinese police constables appeared as defendants in the Mixed Court yesterday, charged with extorting money from Chinese hawkers, though the technical charges against the two were differently framed.

The first accused, Siau Kyonwo, C.P.C. 448, was charged with malfeasance of office, the three counts against him being noted as the acceptance of bribes. The constable had threatened several hawkers at Markham Road bridge, saying he would arrest them for obstruction if they did not come through with some money. When he began kicking their baskets around they paid up, one man 30 cents and two others 35 cents each. The first man, who paid thirty cents to the constable, thought it was too much of a good thing when the policeman came around for more, and the hawker went to the Police Station about the matter.

The constable appeared before Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh yesterday, and was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment. The money found on him when arrested is to be returned to the complainants.

The second accused constable was Sung Tsung-kaung, charged with extortion. The constable was on duty at Sungkong Road market, and his method of extortion, according to the charge, was to go to hawkers in the market and tell them their goods were bad, demanding money from them. The first complainant he had accused of selling meat unfit for human consumption, and demanded $3, though he got only one. The second complainant he accused of selling decayed fish, and demanded $2. Failing to get anything, he slapped the man's face, it is testified by the complainant.

Mr. Snyder appeared for the defense when the case was heard before Mr. Whitamore, British Assessor, and Magistrate Li yesterday. Counsel asked for a remand for one week to permit him to look into the case. This was granted, the accused being held in $1,000 cash or shop security.

Kao Ling-wei May Form New Cabinet

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 26.—The question of the formation by Dr. W. W. Yen of the Cabinet has now ceased any more to be a point at issue in political circles here. It is reported in well-informed quarters, however, that Mr. Kao Ling-wei, Comptroller General of the Revenue Council, will possibly form a new cabinet.

Karakhan Meets Yoshizawa Again; No Solution Yet

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 26.—At the Russo-Japanese parley today, which lasted from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Japanese Legation, views were at first exchanged between the delegates of the two countries over the question of debts and the question of compensation for the losses sustained by Japanese individuals during the Russian Revolution, but later on, reference was coincidently made to the question of rights in North Saghalien.

M. Karakhan pointed to the firm attitude being taken by his home government in this respect. The above fact is, it may be observed, indicative of how M. Karakhan is taking into considerations his relations with his home government.

It is understood that at future sittings, the Japanese and Soviet delegates have a mind to draw up a draft agreement on all the pending questions one after another, in the meantime keeping up their deliberation upon the question of rights, and that as soon as a solution is found for the last mentioned question, they are prepared to complete the fundamental principles, on the basis of which a final agreement will be concluded.

The fact remains, however, that no gleam of hope is within sight as yet, so long as the question of rights in North Saghalien is concerned. It is expected that the next sitting will take place on Thursday.

Ask Frenchtown To Enforce Wrapping Of Bakers' Bread

Enactment of a regulation to enforce the wrapping of bread in paper envelopes has been requested of the French Municipal Council by the Shanghai Municipal Council, according to correspondence published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

The matter was brought up by the Acting Commissioner of Health of the Settlement, who pointed out that while all bakeries in the Settlement were now obliged to wrap bread, he had no authority to demand wrapping in the case of bread delivered in the Settlement from bakeries in the French Concession.

Staff Changes

Police Force.—Sub-Inspector T. Dunne is reduced to the rank of Sergeant for a period of three months from August 18.

Constable W. G. F. Sandell is deprived of 10 months seniority from August 19.

Health Department.—The resignation of Miss R. Cantorovitch, Assistant Nurse, is accepted from November 14.

Public Works Department.—Long leave is granted of Messrs. C. Cazier and R. E. Scatchard, Assistant Land Surveyors, from April 4 and March 3, 1925 respectively.

Economic And Financial Conditions During July

Note.—The following statistics of economic and financial conditions during July, 1924, have been compiled by Dr. E. Kann, Acting General Manager of the Chinese American Bank of Commerce in Shanghai. The statistics will be printed in a consecutive series. Appended is the opening instalment:

The issue of our monthly reports was interrupted since January of this year, owing to the absence from Shanghai of the writer.

Today's notes are meant briefly to review the economic conditions in China and abroad during the past seven months.

CHINA

Politically there was very little change as compared with the close of 1923. Things have not improved, and no progress has been made towards re-unification of the country. The month of June witnessed the signature of a treaty between the Peking Government and Soviet Russia. In July the final financial agreement between China and Germany was signed, whereby the German portion of the Reorganisation Loan, as well as certain railway loans, were legalised. Only scant progress has been made in connection with the Gold Francs question, but towards the end of July, it appeared that some sort of a solution was imminent.

Economically China has suffered considerably during the past seven months. Crops generally promised well, but in July certain provinces were visited by severe floods, which are causing great sufferings and heavy losses.

Exports from China have fallen off considerably, especially exports to America. This may possibly be due to the uncertainty which is caused by a Presidental election. The figures relating to exports from Shanghai to America, as given elesewhere, tell their own tale. It was especially raw silk, the export of which to U.S.A. was reduced, after February, to exceedingly small parcels.

The price of tea(owing to a much reduced crop, went up considerably, but towards the end of July quotations had come down and showed signs of further weakness.

About cotton and also about silk we shall speak later on.

It was not Shanghai only suffering a set-back in exports, but almost all other treaty ports have fared likewise. One of the important places, Dairen, showed a reduction of its exports during the first 6 months of this year, amounting to 40%, while the revenue from the import duty fell off 5%.

The following table of comparison may be of interest:

	First half, 1924
Import duty	Tls. 1,108,604
Export duty	1,769,789
Coast trade dues	23,346
Re-export duty	37,391
Tonnage dues	11
Total	Tls. 2,939,141

	First half, 1923
Import duty	Tls. 1,071,959
Export duty	2,358,873
Coast trade dues	31,661
Re-export duty	36,493
Tonnage dues	520
Total	Tls. 3,499,506

Shanghai's exports to America for the first 6 months of the current year show a decrease of 10½ million U. S. $ over the corresponding period of 1923, according to figures compiled by Mr. E. S. Cunningham, U. S. Consul General at Shanghai. The principal items were:

Regarding imports into China the situation during the first seven months was better than that of exports. Cotton piece goods generally were in fair demand. Only certain classes of goods were badly hit, notably those which were imported in anticipation of heavy demands on the part of Japan, subsequent on last year's earthquake disaster there. These articles were steel construction material in general and wire nails in particular. Further window glass, of which there are excessive stocks at Shanghai. Another article on which importers have to take losses is woolen cloth, of which there are heavy stocks in China.

The following notes on two articles of the utmost importance, silk and cotton, will probably be found of interest:

For many centuries past silk, in common with tea, has been monopoly of China. Even to this day silk heads the list of commodities exported from China, representing about one quarter of the total value of merchandise exported from this country. The average value of silks (principally raw silk) shipped from China during recent years may be put at 100 million U. S. $. While this figure is noteworthy by its size, it tends to remain stationary, or even to recede, the reason being that Japan has managed to supply the bulk of the world's evergrowing demand for silk. Sericulture in China has not progressed to any marked degree, notwithstanding the wonderful prospects afforded by methodical improvement of sericultural development.

Very praisworthy attempts have been made by the International Committee for the Improvement of Sericulture in China to produce and distribute disease-free silkworm eggs. But the output from that source is necessarily very small, as compared with the total number of layings hatched annually within this country.

The world's requirements, and especially those of the United States, have steadily been increasing. But China's production has not. Apparent indifference on the part of the Chinese producer, in contrast with strenuous efforts on the part of the Japanese, has been going side by side for many decades. More than 30 years ago the Japanese Government took an active interest in the improvement of the quality of silk produced in that country. Already then a silk conditioning house was established by the authorities, and soon afterwards the official examination for moisture added by artificial means was made compulsory in Japan. As far back as 1875 the latter country began to advance its exports of silks to America at the cost of China. And from then on Japan has been the source of supply of raw silk for the entire world.

Nothing could illustrate better the correctness of the foregoing remarks than the figures which follow:

Shanghai's export of raw silk (all descriptions) during the season 1923-24, ended 31st of May, was in round figures.

	piculs
.....	74,300
against season 1922-23	79,500
" " 1921-22	69,000
" " 1920-21	57,000
" " 1919-20	89,000

Canton's export of raw silk of all descriptions during the season 1923-24, ended May 31, was in round figures .....

	piculs
.....	56,400
against season 1922-23	66,000
" " 1921-22	53,800
" " 1920-21	39,400
" " 1919-20	66,300

The following table supplies interesting data with regard to Japan's exports of raw silk during the past 10 years, as compared with China's. The total shipments from the Far East during the 1923-24 season amounted to .... 491,877 bales, against 1922-23 season .... 443,566 bales.

Of the former 131,695 bales have been supplied by China, while the balance of 260,182 has been shipped by Japan. The following tables give further particulars:

In No. 9 of the "China Weekly Review," S. L. Pan publishes a very illuminating article under the heading "China's Silk Trade with America" There it is clearly set forth how rapidly Japan's silk trade with U. S. A. has been advancing, and how sadly China has been falling off as a source of supply. Figures available since 1885 show that Japan then exported raw silk to America at an average value of 8.1 million dollars. In 1922 the total had risen to $291,292,000.00.

SWISS TO ACQUIRE MERCHANT MARINE

Levity Usually Characterizing Reference To Swiss Ships To Be Incongruous.

The levity which usually characterizes any reference to the Swiss merchant marine will soon become incongruous, for the little landlocked country is about to acquire a mercantile fleet all its own. Matters have even progressed as far as the definite incorporation of a Swiss steamship company with a capital of 20,000 pounds sterling. An order for the construction of 10 ships has already been placed, and it will not be long before the Swiss flag will be flying on real steamers. True, the ships are for use on a service between Rhine ports and the Black Sea, but it is a start anyway and we can only wish the Swiss merchant marine good luck. We are glad that this venture has been launched, if only to place the quietus on an old chestnut which still persists in cropping up among pseudo-humorists every once in a while.

Switzerland, however, is not alone in her maritime aspirations, for another country is preparing to enter the lists for maritime supremacy. We refer to Lithuania which is seriously considering the advisability of establishing a merchant marine. It all started when the port of Memel went to Lithuania, for, given a port the nation now thinks it ought to have ships. First of all, however, she must have seamen to man the ships, and accordingly the newly elected president of the Lithuanian Seamen's Union called on officials of his Government and requested their support for the project of purchasing a training ship to be used for the education in seamanship and navigation of young Lithuanians. Furthermore, consideration is being given by the Lithuanian Government to the creation of a national fleet. All we can hope for Lithuania is that if the Government acquires ships it will not hand them over to a Shipping Board.

She had such taking ways—but there was a method in her money madness: she wanted to teach the man a lesson, and make him love. See:

WHY BACKS ACHE.
The Kidneys Seldom to Blame
The Trouble Due to Blood Impurities.

There is more nonsense talked about backache than any other trouble. Some people have been frightened into the belief that every backache means deadly kidney trouble. As a matter of medical fact not one backache in twenty has anything to do with the kidneys. Most backaches come from sheer weakness and kidney drugs can't help that. You need something to improve your blood and build you up, and that is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do. Some backaches are really muscular rheumatism; some are the symptoms of such ailments as influenza, indigestion, constipation and liver troubles. In women most backaches come from any weakness or irregularity of the blood supply. To get rid of the trouble take a tonic like Dr. Williams Pink Pills to enrich the blood and bring strength to aching backs and weak nerves. In Dr. Williams' Pink Pills you are trying no new unproven remedy, but one which has enjoyed world-wide public confidence for over five-and-thirty years. You can get them from chemists everywhere, or post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co.' 60 Kiangse Road Shanghai

The Improvement Of The Hwai Valley

THERE were rumors in circulation last week to the effect that the Military Governor of Kiangsu Province had obtained a loan of several million dollars in the United States for the purpose of reclaiming the large area of swampy land embraced in the Hwai Valley district. The truth of the matter most probably is that the Governor would like to obtain such a loan rather than that he has obtained a loan, but regardless of the point of accuracy regarding the rumor which was published in the native press, it does indicate that a commonsense view of the Hwai Valley problem is finally being taken.

The Hwai problem is one that immediately concerns Shanghai in that the area covered embraces parts of the province in which Shanghai is located as well as parts of the provinces of Anhwei and Honan. The Hwai River has its source in the hills of Honan and originally discharged into the sea between the old mouth of the Yellow River and the Yangtsze. Owing to the occasional overflow from the Yellow River and the construction of the Grand Canal right across its natural outlet to the sea, the natural course of the Hwai River was disturbed until it now finds itself in the predicament of being a river without a mouth. In flood times the river discharges partly through the Grand Canal and partly through a chain of lakes parallel to the Canal and finally into the Yangtsze River near Chinkiang. In actual practice much of the flood water never finds its way to the sea at all but spreads over the level country north of of the Yangtsze and creates a vast marshy district. Thus a large section of fertile land is made largely useless for agriculture and millions of people, in the midst of a densely populated region, are deprived of a means of livelihood.

In the 1921 flood it was said that 10½ millions of acres were inundated and food crops destroyed were valued at many millions of dollars. As to the potentialities of the district, one authority has estimated that this district could produce annually $300,000,000 worth of rice alone, if properly drained. The large fertile area of low farming land stretching along the coast of Kiangsu province almost to the borders of Shantung are embraced in this district.

Many attempts have been made in the past to solve this Hwai problem, but nothing has been done, chiefly because the schemes have been linked up with some philanthropic or elemosenary project. In 1913 it was the Y. M. C. A. which interested itself in the reclamation of the Hwai to the extent of employing a staff of engineers to make a survey of the district. And quite recently the improvement of the Hwai was linked-up with the propaganda in Washington in connection with the remission of the American share of the China Boxer Indemnity. The International Famine Relief Committee in Peking as well as the "independent" Chinese-Foreign Famine Relief Committee of Shanghai have interested themselves in the Hwai Scheme, but outside of voluminous engineering reports all agreeing upon the feasibility of reclaiming the area, nothing has been accomplished.

The fact that there is now talk of obtaining a loan abroad for the purpose of reclaiming this district, is encouraging for the reason that the Hwai Valley Reclamation is essentially a business-engineering problem. There is no mystery connected with it and neither is there any reason for thinking of it as a charitable enterprise. The land in the district is immensely fertile due to the periodic deposits of silt. At present the value of of the land is negligible because it suffers from overflow, but when it is protected by a proper system of dykes and drainage canals it immediately becomes very valuable for farming purposes. The improvement scheme, therefore, would soon pay for itself in increased taxes from the reclaimed land. The financing likewise should be equally simple. All that is required is a loan or bond issue with payments spread over a period of years with the tax receipts as security. The engineers who have investigated the area, while disagreeing as to methods, all agree on the feasibility of the enterprise and the soundness of the economics involved.

The circumstances are propitious for taking up the [illegible] at this time. All of this area [illegible] in the territory controlled by the present Tuchun of Nanking, General Chi Shih-yuan, and if the elements of militarism and internal political squabbling could be removed it should be a simple matter to undertake the reclamation of the Hwai Valley district. The 1923 edition of the China Year Book credits Kiangsu province alone with some 75,000, troops, which should be ample for the labor requirements of any reclamation scheme if they could be so utilised. The Governor of this province is a comparatively young man and reputed to be one of the most ambitious and energetic men in official life in China. Like many of the military leaders of the country, he is reputed to have an overwhelming desire to become a military dictator of China along the lines pursued by his superior, General Wu Pei-fu of Loyang, and his compatriot at Mukden, General Chang Tso-lin. If we are not mistaken in our forecast, the big men of this era in China's history who will be remembered will not be the men who bent all of their efforts toward the conquest of neighboring provinces, but rather the men who developed and improved their provinces. Students of Chinese history will, in all probability, find more pages devoted to the accomplishments of men like Governor Yen Hsi-shan of Shansi, who has built hundreds of miles of roads, constructed schools and improved the conditions surrounding the lives of the people, than they will find pages devoted to the exploits of mere military autocrats who built up big armies and disturbed the peace of the country.

For this reason we are encouraged at the reports that an effort is to be made to obtain a foreign loan for the purpose of improving the Hwai area. We are encouraged because in order to obtain a foreign loan it will be necessary to demonstrate that political conditions in the area involved are stable and this, in turn, will bring to an end the periodic war-scares which disturb this part of China.

The Government Of Bengal

THE action of the Swarajist majority in the Bengal Legislative Council in again rejecting the resolution providing for ministerial salaries, is important as again drawing attention to one of the unfortunate results of the gradual change in the form of governments in India, which places officials at the mercy of an unofficial majority. A portion of the British scheme for the devolution of governmental responsibility upon the Hindoos involves a gradual transition in the composition of legislative assemblies so that voting strength ultimately passes from the permament officials to the unofficial representatives. Thus, for example, in Hongkong, despite long agitation for a change, the Legislative Council is dominated by an official majority which votes as directed. It is inconceivable that the Hongkong Government could be defeated except by the defection of official members who would probably have subsequently to explain their action. In India that is different. The unofficial members are returned by an electorate; they are numerically superior to the official representatives, and, as has happened in this instance, a Government may find itself faced with the task of fulfilling it's duties in the teeth of a determined opposition.

In March of this year, the Swarajist's threw out the proposals relating to ministerial salaries. It was an indication of the continuance of the non-cooperationist policy, and was designed for the purpose of embarassing that Government. In Great Britain such an adverse vote would mean the defeat of the Government, for any resolution affecting the remuneration of a minister necessarily involves a vote of confidence or the reverse. In India such is not the case, and it is possible for a Government properly to continue its executive functions despite adverse action of the Legislative Assemblies, by reason of the fact that the latter do not constitute the sole origin of government. Thus, following the defeat of March, the Governor of Bengal sought to reintroduce the defeated motion, but this was frustrated by the Swarajists obtaining an injunction restraining the government from any such action. The Court seems to have held that this could not be done under the standing orders and rules of procedure, for the next move of the Government was to proceed to an amendment of these so that the estimates could be re-submitted. This was done, the estimates again brought forward and again thrown out by the narrow majority of two.

The administration is now to be carried on without ministers, That is only possible, as we have already pointed out, by reason of the fact that the authority for Government comes not from one source, but two, the second being the Imperial Government. Obviously this must be so, for otherwise the Government of Bengal would be at a deadlock. The fortunes of the Government could not be tested by an election, because in the slow transition from a bureaucratic to an electoral government, that stage has not yet been reached at which the electors of Bengal have complete say. Nothing positive can yet be done by the Bengal Legislative Council without the approval of the Imperial Government, and where, as in this case, a negative action has resulted, the Government can and will ignore its signifiance. In other words, the Swarajists have done little but demonstrate their voting power, and the Government of Bengal will proceed despite their obstruc[illegible]

IDLENESS THE MOTHER OF PROGRESS

Idleness is the mother of progress. So long as men were busy they had no time to think of bettering their condition.

Idleness is the mother of art. It was when men had leisure from the chase that they decorated the handles of their hunting-knives and the walls of their cave-dwelling.

Idleness is the mother of religion. It is in the relax and rebound from toil that men think of God.

We talk of all men's right to work. There is a deeper right than that. It is the right to idleness.

The value of what we put upon the page of life depends the width of the margin.

The great, useful, redeeming, and lasting work of the world is that work which is a reaction from idleness. The continent of labor is barren. It is the little island of labor that is green and fruitful in the sea of leisure.

The curse of America is its deification of labor. Our little gods are the men who are ceaselessly forthputting.

Most of all we deify capital, which never rests, but goes on producing day and night.

We are so occupied in getting ready to live that we have lost the art of living.

With us a man is a fool if he sets about to enjoy himself before he has laid up a fortune. We count the woman happy when she has married money, and the child accursed when he has no inheritance.

Every morning we arise from our beds and charge bloodthirstily into the struggle. We all do it, millionaires and paupers. In his office the trust magnate sits at his scheming until his nerves are loosed, his arteries hardened, and his soul caked. The slaves of Rome never worked so hard as many of our laborers in mines and factories.

"After the Semitic fashion," says Remy de Goncourt, "you make even the women work. Rich and poor, all alike, you know nothing of the joys of leisure."

There ought to be two leisure classes, yea three: all children under twenty-one, all women, and all men over sixty.

The work of the world could be easily done by males between the ages of twenty-one and sixty. To accomplish this, all that is needed is to abolish militarism, that insane burden of men in idleness, abolish all piled-up wealth-units that keep husky males workless, and abolish our worship of activity.

Then there would be plenty of work for every man to keep him from want, and plenty of leisure for every man to preserve in him a living soul.

If I were czar of the world, no woman should work except as she might elect for her amusement; no child should do aught but play.

Among savages the woman do all the work. In the coming civilisation they shall do none. The progress of the race is the progress of the female from toil to leisure.

Every woman is a possible mother. She should have only to grow and to be strong. She should be the real aristocracy, the real Upper Class, to give culture and beauty to life. She should have time to attend to the duties of her eternal priesthood.

As for man, little by little, he also would lift himself from the killing grind of monotonous exertion. For he would make steam and electricity, and other giants not yet discovered, do the dirty work.

To bring all this to pass, you do not need to devise any cunning scheme of government, nor to join any party or specious ism. You need do only one thing.

And that is to establish Justice.

The end of fraud and wrong is fevered toil. The end of justice is the superior product of skill and genius, and their mother, leisure.

JESSFIELD PARK

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir.—I write to express a generally felt want on the part of west side citizens which has been growing for many months and which, I think, deserves your attention.

Residents in the Jessfield Park section need and very much want two additions to the recreation facilities of the park—a practice golf course and a swimming pool. At present the park offers almost none of the recreation facilities afforded residents in other parts of the city and these two additions can be made without in any way defacing or detracting from the beauty of the grounds.

As for the swimming pool, the desirability of it is universally recognised and has been again and again affirmed in THE CHINA PRESS. It could be located in a part of the grounds now practically unused, could be made inconspicuous and it would help, perhaps more than anything else, to make the park a delightful playground. Why the swimming pool question has been so repeatedly delayed is a matter of real perplexity to those who have seriously considered the matter.

In addition to the swimming pool a small practice golf course would be another splendid acquisition to the park. It is not suggested that a complete nine-hole playing course be installed, for that would entail considerable equipment, nor is it suggested that any bunkers or hazards be erected. A practice course of a few holes and with a single driving tee and greens would be quite enough to make Jessfield golf fans completely happy. None of these changes would interfere in any respect with the natural beauty of the park. In order not to prevent the enjoyment of the park by others, the use of the park for golfing practice could be limited to the early morning hours, say from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. or 6 a.m. to 9 a.m.

I bring this matter to your attention because I know the general demand for these adjustments and because I am confident that if they are thoroughly discussed and examined, no material objections will be raised against them.

I am, etc.,
WEST END.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

The rouble once was treated with respect,
The guinea was a thing that people prized;
The franc, as you will doubtless recollect,
Had merits that were widely recognized;
In other years the humble little mark
Had value that it never will get back;
I remember, and I'm not a patriarch,
When the dollar was a handsome piece of jack.

In seasons that to memory are dear—
Perhaps you can recall them if you try—
Five thousand good old iron men per year
Gave one a fair excuse for stepping high;
The sweet stenog who got fifteen a week
Was envied by her sisters, young and old,
But the dollar has a manner that is meek,
When it's handed out where things are bought and sold.

There was a time when ham and eggs were not
Set off among the priceless luxuries,
When, with a ten-cent piece of pie, one got
A free and not too stingy chunk of cheese.
When shoes and clothes and rent and coal were cheap,
When a derby cost three dollars, and no more,
When a postman's wages were enough to keep
The shaggy wolf from scratching at his door

The rouble has become a gruesome joke,
The pound has lost the dignity it had;
The mark is flattened by a fatal stroke,
The franc's condition, frankly's rather bad;
The lire and crown are full of nasty dents,
The florin isn't soaring very high;
The dollar still is worth a hundred cents,
It's little that a hundred cents will buy.

Measuring The Sun's Distance

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Your very clear and convincing explanation of the method of weighing the moon, published lately, leads me to ask that you give an account of the methods of measuring the space between the earth and the sun.—L. K."

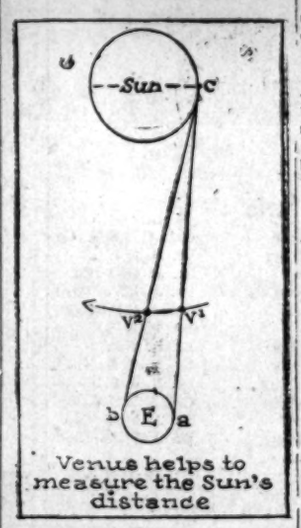
There are about a dozen different methods of attacking this problem, but they all aim at the same fundamental datum, viz.: the parallax of the sun, which means simply the size of the angle that the earth would subtend if seen from the sun.

This is fundamental because the angular, or apparent, diameter of any far-off object varies in accord with its distance; if the distance is doubled the apparent diameter is halved; if the distance is halved the diameter is doubled, and so on.

Then, if the actual diameter is known in ordinary units of measurement, the distance can be calculated. For instance, if I see a distant house whose length subtends an angle of ¼ of a degree, and I know that the length of the house is 40 feet, I calculate, by the principle of angular measurement, that the distance is 9,167.32 feet.

I said, for the sake of simplicity, that the parallax equals the size of the angle that the earth—i. e., the earth's diameter, subtends as seen from the sun; but, for reasons that I need not enter into, the astronomer uses not the whole diameter of the earth, but its half, or the earth's radius, which cuts the size of the angle in two.



Venus helps to measure the Sun's distance

But how are we to know what angle the earth subtends as seen from the sun, since we cannot go to the sun to measure it?

We must get at it indirectly. Here the other planets, circling around the sun together with the earth, come in to help us. Venus, when in transit across the sun was formerly much used. The general principle is perhaps most clearly shown by what is called "Delisle's Method," illustrated in the cut.

The curved arrow betwen the earth (E) and the sun is a part of Venus's orbit. Two observers are stationed on the earth, at a and b, not far from the equator, and separated from one another by nearly the whole diameter of the earth. As Venus comes into line between the earth and the sun, she will first be seen by the observer at a, beginning to move upon the sun's disk at c. She is then at the point V1 in her orbit. A few minutes later, as she continues to travel onward, the observer at b sees her entering on the disk, just as the one at a did before. She is now at the point V2 in her orbit.

Now, both observers have been careful to note the exact time when they saw Venus touching the sun's edge, and consequently the number of minutes taken by Venus to move from V1 to V2 is known. But the time taken by her to make an entire circuit of her orbit being also known, the time she is moving from V1 to V2 bears the same proportions to her entire orbital period that the angle between the lines aC and bC bears to the circumference of a circle; hence the angle at C becomes known, and that angle obviously equals the apparent diameter of the earth as seen from the sun—which was the thing to be ascertained.

If the observers are not exactly at opposite ends of the earth's diameter, the difference is easily allowed for. The actual time taken by Venus to move over the angle shown is about 12 minutes; her period is about 840,960 minutes. See if you can figure the angle in seconds of arc.

There has been no transit of Venus since 1882, and the next occurs in 2004. It is not likely that she will again be called upon to aid in this work, for better results are now obtained by other more or less similar methods. One method of a different kind, that has given apparently very accurate results, is based on comparison of the earth's velocity in its orbit with the velocity of light.

DRESS

Pastel Shades of Single Color Stand in High Favor with Fashion.

It takes many men and many minds to make up the world's opinion in any matter and so each season's record in the great book of fashion must be the result of many sorts of tastes, prejudices and convictions.

So that is always danger of inaccuracy in such statements as this:

"Bright colors are all the rage." "Every one is wearing white." "French women all favor black for street wear."

There are some women who would sooner paint their noses purple than to wear bright colors of any sort. I know plenty such. There are others who never wear white and of course there are some French women, and well-dressed ones among them, who would shudder at the idea of wearing black save when they were forced to by being in mourning.

What generalisations can one safely make concerning the color tendencies of the present season? Go to some gatherings, some dress-making displays and you come away convinced that never since the French Revolution has there been such a display of bright color in apparel as there is today. Even men's clothes—if you can count their bathing suits, jackets, etc—are taking on an unusual bit of color.

On the other hand, many a smart woman has chosen her entire summer wardrobe without one really striking bit of color in it. She still inclines to whites, grays, beige, black and the palest pastel tones.

One thing that might be said with accuracy concerning the season's color tendencies is that there is a wide use of shadings of the same color. With pink chiffon we are very apt to find a deeper rose and a lighter pink by way of trimming, rather than blue or violet or other contrasting tones. The sketch shows a charming summer frock consisting of a long tunic of pink worn over a slip with flounces of several shades of rose and pink.

A PASSION FOR PAINT

"There's nothing she can't do with a can of paint and a paint brush," said one young woman enthusiastically about another. "And she has a perfect passion for doing it, too. She'd rather paint things than eat or dance."

What this young woman liked to paint, we learned, was not miniatures, or portraits or even decorations on china, but such things as wicker furniture, window sills, porch floors and even the family automobile when it needed it. With her talent for painting she was able at very small expense to transform a rather ordinary sort of sun parlor with some odds an ends of wicker furniture into one of the most delightful rooms of the sort.

One thing that this young woman insists on, however, is that she should always have her paints mixed by the professional paint dealer. If she is going to do a very small job she will use a small can of ready-mixed paints but otherwise she goes to a paint dealer who can be trusted and gets him to mix the desired quantity of paint for her. She insists that she owes much of her success to this precaution.

She has also been able to furnish several rooms in her house at rather small expense by using unpainted furniture which she has painted to suit herself. Now many persons seem to be of the opinion that unpainted furniture is so expensive that it is not worth the trouble of painting it for themselves. Better buy the ready-painted sort. However, it really is possible through some searching to find attractive pieces of the unpainted sort at small cost.

Don't imagine for a minute that painting is easy. One reason why this young woman likes the work is because it really is difficult and therefore well worth her best efforts.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

How much control have you over yourself?

Do you get wrought up every-time an automobile driver does something foolish, causing you to make a quick and strenuous effort to avoid an accident?

If something in your home has been moved from its accustomed place do you fly into a rage, when you cannot find it at once?

If you have to wait a few minutes longer than you anticipated for some one to get ready to go out with you, do you become irritable?

It is foolish to go through life allowing yourself to be annoyed by trifles.

Does any good come to you, ever from these outbursts of temper?

Such tyranical outbursts become more frequent as time goes on.

There is such a thing as a "righteous indignation" and there are occasions when to remain placid would be as foolish as to have "temper fits".

But your angry paroxysms are not occasioned by anything like "righteous indignation"—you simply let an evil temper get the better of you.

Better stop it before it is too late.

You cannot keep friendship, and at the same time fly "off the handle" every time you are displeased.

Council Approves Pro Rata Limiting Of Ricsha Licenses

Discussion of methods of limitation of the number of public ricshas in the Settlement to 10,000 in accordance with the recent decision of the Shanghai Municipal Council took place at the Council meeting on August 13, according to today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

The proposal of the Acting Commissioner of Police, which previously had had the indorsement of the Watch Committee, was approved. It provides that limitation shall be undertaken on a pro rata basis of the number of licenses held on July 1, due consideration being given to those owners who derive a livelihood by holding only one or two licenses.

It was pointed out that action to increase license fees cannot be taken without authorisation by a ratepayers' meeting.

Chinese Sentenced For "Borrowing" Jardine Boat Here

The case against two Chinese for conspiracy in connection with borrowing a small boat belonging to Jardine Matheson and Company a few weeks ago, and taking a trip "on their own" with it, was concluded in the Mixed Court yesterday. Considerable evidence was given in Court with regard to the case.

It appears that one or two foreigners and several Chinese took the boat and ran it up the stream aways and brought it down again. The Company complained on account of the unpermitted use of the boat, but there was no law covering a specific case of the kind, so the charge was framed as conspiracy.

Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh gave sentence yesterday. Tsang Ah-san, a laodah, who appears to have been the chief figure of the Chinese in the party, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment. The charge against a second man, a boatman, was withdrawn.
